"HOLLEY HUNT JOINS AITX: A STRATEGIC POWER-UP!"

We're thrilled to announce that industry veteran Holley Hunt has joined our ranks as Vice President of Strategic Partnerships.

Holley brings valuable experience and connections from her years working with Fortune 500 clients in the security sector. She'll work with our business development team to identify new opportunities, add strategy to current prospects, and manage major accounts.

With an impressive career spanning two decades at leading firms like Johnson Controls, Bosch, and QCIC, Holley is excited to push the pace of our industry and contribute to our company's growth and expansion.

Let's welcome Holley to our team and look forward to a bright future!

AMD REVEALS NEW A.I. CHIP TO RIVAL NVIDIA

AMD is set to release its advanced AI GPU, the MI300X, challenging Nvidia's dominant market position. This chip supports larger AI models and is part of AMD's long-term growth strategy. Alongside, AMD also introduced ROCm, a software package for its AI chips. This entry could reshape the AI chip market and pressure Nvidia's pricing.

Reports Annual Results and Corporate Updates

AITX: AI-ming High and Making Waves!

Hey there, AITX family! What a year it's been! We saw our sales funnel grow a whopping 4x, signaling some serious interest in what we're doing. We rolled out cool stuff like new ROSA™ iterations and more ROAMEO™ 2.0 units.

And talk about wins - we've successfully deployed our tech in schools, healthcare facilities, and even expanded with some major clients. Despite hurdles, we decreased our net loss significantly and upped our monthly revenue by 29%.

We also tweaked our team size for better efficiency, all without losing our spark. Thanks to everyone riding this journey with us, we're excited for what's next!
